Catch-Up Vaccines for Missed Doses

Most vaccines are generally straightforward when providing catch-up doses (i.e. provide the dose at the earliest opportunity with no need to restart a series). There are some exceptions when the schedule has been interrupted:

- Tetanus containing vaccines for individuals 7 years of age and older who have not completed their series
- Pneumococcal conjugate vaccine for children under 5 years of age who have not completed their series
- Recommended and minimum intervals for the rotavirus vaccine for infants
